22 Foreign Educators To Visit Show

Group In U.S. Is Studying American Ways

Nearly Dozen Lands Represented By Touring Teachers

Twenty-two educators from nearly a dozen foreign countries, visiting the United States to study the basic phases of American life, will be among the most interested spectators at the 1956 Golden Jubilee Pumpkin Show.

The group will arrive in Circleville next Friday to view the grand finale of the celebration that has carried Circleville's name around the globe. The educators are presently at Ohio State University for the Autumn quarter.

Their visit here has been arranged by a Kiwanis committee headed by Carl Johnson. While in Circleville, their headquarters will be the Methodist Church, where the Rev. Charles Reed will also help direct details of their welcome.

Local families wishing to help entertain one or more of the visitors should contact either Johnson or the Rev. Mr. Reed at the earliest opportunity.

THE school teachers have indicated special interest in attending the annual Pumpkin Show because of the colorful manner in which the fiesta shows Americana at its best. Much of the Pumpkin Show's success over the years has been attributed to the way in which it never fails to draw the whole-hearted participation of the community.

Twelve of the 22 educators will be men.

Members of the group represent 11 foreign nations: Australia, Belgium, Burma, Egypt, Germany, Italy, Iceland, India, Malaya, Mexico and Pakistan.

The 22 educators are a part of a group of 250 teachers invited to this country earlier this year to study American education, business, industry, and the daily community activities that come in the course of American living. The program is being sponsored by the U. S. Congress through the aid of the Department of State and federal education agencies.

Main purpose is to create a better understanding between the United States and the foreign lands represented.

At OSU, the program is under the direction of Arch O. Heck, professor of education at the university. He said:

"IT IS the feeling of Congress that if educators from many other countries can live in the United States, come to know our program of education, get a clear understanding of American business, and a greater appreciation of what we call our American way of life, that they are in a key position to pass on such attitudes and understandings to the young people of their own countries."

The 250 educators now in this country under the program are from more than 50 foreign nations. OSU is one of 12 universities sharing in the plan.

Of the 22 who will visit the Pumpkin Show, some are teachers, some are school principals, and some are officials in the state department of education of their native lands. The group of 22 will be at OSU for a few weeks.

Four Ohio communities have invited the visiting educators to spend a weekend visiting families in their respective communities. In addition to Circleville, invitations have been received from Shelby, Urbana and Pataskala.

In stressing the high merits of the program, Heck said:

"Perhaps nothing that the United States government can do will mean more in the way of creating

Adlai Accuses Ike Of 'Deception'

Dem Candidate Claims 'We Have Had Enough Self-Advertising'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, who accuses President Eisenhower of "deception," says that "we have had enough of inaction and self-advertising."

He contended that "when we lose ground abroad, we are assured that all is well."

"I don't think" the public likes "to be told by Mr. Dulles and President Eisenhower that American prestige 'has never been higher,' when it is manifestly untrue," he declared.

Stevenson also said he would have more to say Monday about his proposals for ending hydrogen bomb tests.

After remarking that "I understand the President said that he has said his last word on testing H-bombs and military manpower requirements," Stevenson said:

"Well, I haven't said mine and neither, my friends, have the people of this country who have the only last word."

Stevenson left it crystal clear that he regards his proposals for ending hydrogen bomb tests as one of the strong Democratic issues of the campaign.

* * *

"NEXT MONDAY," he said, "I expect to say more on this subject."

That, his staff said, will be in a nationwide TV and radio address from either Chicago or his farm home at Libertyville, Ill.

Stevenson's staff contends he has won widespread support from religious and educational leaders since he suggested the country "find a way" to halt the testing of the powerful H-bombs.

Eisenhower said Thursday his administration has done everything humanly possible to bring the H-bomb threat under international control and use atomic power for peaceful purposes.

Thursday night, Stevenson told the Oakland rally: "I'll let them (the people) judge whether it is a 'theatrical gesture,' to quote President Eisenhower's phrase, to suggest a safe way to end the deadly competition to build and explode giant H-bombs which contaminate the very air we breathe and threaten no one knows what damage to generations yet unborn."

This last remark brought a storm of applause.

With him were three governors, George Leader of Pennsylvania, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Frank G. Clement of Tennessee, and two senators, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Albert M. Gore of Tennessee.

They talked about Stevenson's proposal to give federal loans and grants to a voluntary private health insurance plan aimed at training more doctors and building more hospitals.

"In four years of this administration," Stevenson said, "no real breakthrough in the battle for the people's health has been proposed."

The Eisenhower administration record amounts to "much fine talk and no action" on farm, school, public resources, tax relief, living cost, civil rights and foreign policy problems, Stevenson said.

"And now we are being offered for campaign consumption a brand of Polyanna politics labeled peace, prosperity and progress," he said.

Stiff Curfew Brings Quiet To Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — An uneasy quiet settled today over riot-torn Kowloon and surrounding villages. Authorities kept a tight curfew clamped on Hong Kong's mainland territory where two days of frenzied rioting and factional fighting left 44 dead.

The colony's British government also sealed Hong Kong's border with Communist China, presumably to prevent Red agents from slipping across to further inflame the atmosphere.

Acting Gov. E. B. Davis extended the curfew imposed Thursday until Saturday morning to give police a better chance to round up persons suspected of leading the riots.

Housewives in each of Kowloon's six curfew zones were allowed only two hours a day on the streets to buy provisions. Gurkha troops from Himalayan Nepal lined the streets as crowds rushed to the stores where prices already were soaring. Spotter planes hovered overhead.

Except for those hours, Kowloon was almost a dead city. Its streets were deserted, and most restaurants and all movie houses closed their doors.

Eighty of the 165 persons arrested during the rioting were brought into court and charged with rioting and unlawful assembly in a heavily guarded courtroom. They were ordered held for hearing on Tuesday.

Boy-Slayer Misses Father's Funeral

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who shot his father fatally didn't go to the funeral today.

For Robert Zavalnak to attend the funeral of his father, Joseph J., 42, would make the boy "the butt of curiosity seekers," Judge Albert A. Woldman said. Also, the court added, the boy had not asked to go and "has shown no remorse."

Mrs. Frances Zavalnak, the boy's mother, disagreed with the ruling:

"It's his last chance to see his father; he should be allowed to see him," she said.

The boy is now undergoing psychiatric tests. On Oct. 26 he will be given a hearing in Juvenile Court and it will be decided how he will be prosecuted.

Dental Chief Dies

PORT CLINTON (AP)—Dr. Earle S. Braithwaite, 71, past president of the Ohio State Dental Society, died of a heart attack in Marblehead today while he was working on a dental patient.

Show Leaders Get Reminder On Publicity

Directors, chairmen and their assistants in charge of the various Pumpkin Show events are reminded that the reporting of routine arrangements dealing with their departments is their own responsibility.

While The Herald will continue to gather and print as much of such information as possible from time to time, the newspaper in no sense will be responsible for any failure to announce important rules, location changes and similar data.

It will be up to the various department leaders to get what they think are important details before the public, when such information goes beyond what The Herald prints on its own initiative as a community service.

Whenever possible, to hold misunderstandings to an absolute minimum, this should be done in the form of clearly-written or typed notes, delivered direct to The Herald offices.

The Herald, both prior to and during the show, will make every effort to ease the task for those in charge of the various events. And, at the same time, keep the public informed.

The Herald's news department telephones are 580 and 581.

FBI Grabs Embezzler In Hodge Bank

CHICAGO (AP)—FBI agents uncovered an alleged embezzlement in the Bank of Elmwood Park Thursday night, hours after a day-long senate inquiry into financial maneuvers behind its organization.

The bank has been linked indirectly with the scandal involving Orville E. Hodge, Republican state auditor who was ousted and imprisoned for making off with $1½ million in state funds.

As auditor, Hodge closed the old First State Bank of Elmwood Park and emerged later as a secret, principal stockholder in the Bank of Elmwood Park, its successor.

Dwight H. Green, former Republican governor of Illinois, was elected chairman of the board of the new bank. He spent Thursday on the witness stand retracing the history of the bank, suppliers of its capital and its successful bid for big deposits of state funds.

The FBI said its agents had seized the head teller of the bank on a charge of embezzling $26,600 of the institution's funds. He was identified as Chester Joseph Biegalski, 46, head teller at the bank since it was reorganized after being closed by then - State Auditor Hodge in 1953.

Donald Hostetter, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said Biegalski told authorities he embezzled the money over the last three years. Hostetter said the shortage was discovered by another employe who relieved Bigalski last Saturday when he started a vacation.

Marines Blamed For GI's Death

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Katie Dillard said she was notified that her son, who she believed was hospitalized died Thursday after a collapse in physical training at the Parris Island, S. C., Marine Corps recruit base.

"They killed my son," Mrs. Dillard said.

She said she got a letter Saturday from Thomas Dillard Jr., 18, saying he was hospitalized with pneumonia.

At Parris Island, the public information office said Dillard was participating in scheduled physical training when he collapsed about 9 a. m. Thursday.

Congressman Dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Rep. J. Percy Priest, a member of Congress from the Fifth Tennessee District for 16 years, died here early today. He was 56.

BASEBALL FANS from all walks of life took a jittery interest in the Yankees' successful battle against the Dodgers in the World Series, but few of the radio listeners and TV watchers could match the all-out enthusiasm of these U. S. soldiers, 10,000 miles away in Korea. Near Seoul, they are shown grouped around a small radio — in the middle of their night! The GI's were willing to lose their sleep to hear the games.

Closing Date Set For 'Little Miss' Entries

Bill Clifton, chairman of the Jaycee committee in charge of arrangements for the Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade, has announced that the closing date for entries has been set at noon Wednesday.

Groups and business firms in Circleville and Pickaway County who plan to sponsor a contestant this year are requested to contact Clifton by phoning 74 or 75 during the day or 1009-X after 5:30 p. m.

Sponsors are required to have printed name cards designating their entries. The sponsors are also required to provide automobiles for the young contestants to ride in during the parade.

Clifton said that identical twins will be judged as one entry. Twins not identical will be judged as separate entries.

First grade pupils from Circleville and Pickaway County are eligible to enter the contest. Judges from Columbus will select the princess and her court.

Red Guerrilla Chief Killed In Malaya

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—Malayan security forces today announced the killing of a top-ranking Communist guerrilla they said directed the slaying of European rubber planters in Negri Sembilan the last eight years.

He was Ah Ho, member of the Malayan Communist party known as the "Terror of Bahau."

The guerrilla, who always was accompanied by a 30-man bodyguard, had gone to the Kuala Pilah district to attend a meeting of Negri Sembilan's top Communists when he was killed.

Court Costs Levied Against Red Athlete

LONDON (AP)— Nina Ponomareva, Soviet Olympic discus champion, was convicted today of shoplifting five cheap hats from a London department store but was given an absolute discharge on payment of $8.82 court costs.

The verdict was handed down by Magistrate Clyde Wilson before whom the famous athlete made a surprise appearance to enter a plea of innocent.

Nina had been missing since Aug. 30 when she originally was due to appear in court. A warrant was issued for her arrest when she failed to appear. She is believed to have taken refuge in the Soviet Embassy, which has diplomatic immunity.

The hefty 27-year-old Russian athlete entered her plea after the store detective who arrested her had testified.

Nina's counsel sought to show that Nina bought the five hats, worth less than $5, and had them placed in a shopping bag from another store from which she had purchased two berets. The store detective, Miss Margaret Bolsen, insisted Nina had not paid for the hats in the second store.

Nina was arrested Aug. 29 on the shoplifting charge. The Russians immediately charged the British with a "dirty provocation" and withdrew their team from a British-Soviet track meet Nina had come to compete in.

Two weeks ago the British government refused a Soviet request that the case be dropped and suggested that the famous woman athlete be brought to court.

Plotter Jailed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Gregorio Fortunato, former commander of the late Getulio Vargas' presidential guard, was sentenced today to 25 years imprisonment on charges of plotting to assassinate the newspaper publisher, Carlos Lacerda.

District Blood Quota Raised To 165 Pints

Leonard Campbell, chairman of the Pickaway County Red Cross blood program, announced today that the Federal Civil Defense Administration has asked the Red Cross to collect approximately 4,000,000 units of whole blood, to be processed into derivatives for the federal civil defense program.

To fulfill Red Cross commitments, it will be necessary to increase blood collections by approximately 15 percent for a 15-month period, beginning this month. And this will mean that Pickaway County's quota will have to be raised from 150 pints per visit to 165 pints, Campbell explained.

The next visit of the bloodmobile to Circleville for all of the local donors will be on Monday, October 22. The unit will be at the Methodist Church from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Campbell renewed appeals for local residents to support the vital program, upon which supplies of blood to the regional hospitals depend.

Those wishing to make an appointment for the October 22 visit are urged to phone 336.

Negro Dem Solon Plans To Back Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Powell (D-NY) expressed hope today of swinging 5 per cent of the Negro and "liberal Democratic" vote in key northern states to President Eisenhower this year.

Powell, one of three Negro members of Congress, named as his main targets the states of Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and California.

Powell announced after a White House visit Thursday that he will support Eisenhower for re-election and will form a national organization to campaign for him. In 1952 Powell backed the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai E. Stevenson.

A fellow Democrat from New York, Rep. Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, called Rep. Powell "a turncoat." Celler added:

"In the next Congress if he is elected, he should be deprived of his seniority rights as a Democrat. He was always unreliable and furthermore ran out on his own people when the Celler Civil Rights bill was called up for the debate and he went to Europe on a pleasure jaunt."

The Negro congressman said after a half hour talk with the President that he is pleased with Eisenhower's attitude on various civil rights measures. Stevenson, he said, "snubbed the whole liberal group — Republicans and Democrats" on the civil rights question this year.

Youthful Escapees Nabbed By Police

DOVER (AP)—Six juveniles who escaped Thursday from the detention home in Warren, were captured in Carrollton Thursday night and charged with breaking and entering a custard stand during their freedom.

Sheriff's deputies said the six, between 13 and 16 years of age, broke out of the detention home, stole an automobile and drove to Kensington, in Columbiana County, where they broke into the custard stand and took cigarettes, cigars and some food.

From Kensington, officers said, they drove to Carrollton, where they were spotted by police.

Mishap Sees 3 Others Felled

Suffocating Gas Hits In Athens County

NELSONVILLE (AP) — Two men died and three others were overcome by "black damp" today in a mine accident six miles southeast of here.

The accident took place at a strip mine which had been converted into an "auger" mine—one in which a hole is bored into the side of a hill by a giant brace and steel bit to bring out "low" coal which otherwise cannot be mined.

The mine is operated by the Wharton Auger Co. and is known as the Kimberly mine. It is near Glen Ebon in Athens County, on Ohio 691, four miles south of U. S. 33 and about 8 miles northwest of Athens.

Officials at the scene reported two men went into the 30-inch hole to check tools. They were hit by "black damp" or "choke damp," a non-explosive but suffocating gas found in mines and consisting mostly of carbon dioxide.

Paul Schorniak, about 45, of Buchtel, and Lawrence Newsom, about 35, of Murray City, were the miners killed.

* * *

ELDRIDGE HANNING, 35, of Oak Grove, was brought to Mount St. Mary Hospital here for emergency treatment. He was unconscious when pulled from the hole. Also overcome, but revived at the scene were Thomas Riley, 33, of Nelsonville, and Bill Stephenson, 45, of Glouster, both of whom entered the hole to rescue the other three men.

"I ran to the hole," Riley said, "tied a line about my waist and started into the hole. I just stuck my head in there and the next thing I knew I was out."

Riley was pulled out with the rope about his waist. Stephenson, right behind Riley, was knocked out by the "black damp" when he approached the hole.

Miners reported that Schorniak apparently crawled into the hole in the first place to unfoul some boring equipment. They believed that when Schorniak was overcome, Newsom climbed in to rescue him and was also overcome.

Hanning then followed the two men into the hole and was overcome, but it was his cry for help that brought Riley and Stephenson and other miners running to the scene. Both Schorniak and Newsom were dead when pulled from the hole.

Mine safety officials are on the scene making an investigation. A mine safety rescue unit stationed at Athens and other emergency vehicles were summoned.

"WORLD GLOBE BEFORE COLUMBUS"

Since today is Columbus day it's only fitting that we honor the man who discovered America back in 1492. Now you may say, "Humphh—who couldn't discover a great big place like America with all the big buildings and the smoke over Pittsburgh and Washington's Monument?" But don't forget old Chris was sailing in a teensy little square boat with a bad-tempered crew who wanted to throw him overboard and the only equipment he had was a crumby compass and a dime-store telescope. So you can be thankful that Columbus was such a good sailor. Otherwise you and I wouldn't be living in the Good Old U. S. of A. Or anywhere else.

Lausche: Country 1st, Party 2nd; Bender: I'm Good For Common Man

COLUMBUS (AP)—Republican Sen. George H. Bender, seeking reelection Nov. 6, and his Democratic opponent, Gov. Frank J. Lausche, engaged in their first face-to-face verbal exchange of the campaign here Thursday.

Among the colorful quotations were these:

Lausche: "I am a Democrat second and an American first."

Bender: "My record is good for the common man."

The clash came at what was billed as a "non-political" luncheon meeting of the Thursday Club at the Spring Street YMCA. The club, a group of Negro business and professional men, had invited Lausche to address the luncheon. Bender came at the request of a club member.

Bender told the luncheon he was campaigning on his record of 40 years in public life, and said, "I think you will find that my record is good for the common man."

"We have never had it so good as we have under Eisenhower," Bender went on. "During almost four years, you have seen things happen. We can go on any public conveyance in Washington. To me, every man is equal."

Bender asserted that he was not a parttime Republican. He was referring to a Lausche statement that if elected senator he might vote under certain circumstances with Republicans to organize the Senate.

It was in this light that the governor reiterated that "I am a Democrat second and an American first. I will never hesitate to cross party lines when I believe it will serve my country best."

Lausche, as the final speaker, spoke for 20 minutes, four more than Bender. Referring to the senator, Lausche observed that "he has made the longest guest speech that I have ever heard."

"Look into the departments of state. Wherever you go, you will find a firm share of Negroes. Two of 14 on my office staff are Negroes," the governor said.

Raising his voice, Lausche turned toward Bender at the speakers' table and said:

"I take a second seat to no one, and in fairness, George, let us remember that the Democrats did something for the Negro people.

"George, you can shout and roar and bellow louder than any man I know."

Bender interrupted to say, "You are doing pretty well yourself."

At one point, Lausche referred to an announced half-million-dollar goal set by the Ohio Republican Senatorial Finance Committee. There is no "$500,000 in my coffers," he said. "There is $7,000, and none from real estate operators."

"They gave none to me," Bender interrupted again.

Lausche said Bender was "conveniently absent" when the Senate voted on the recent housing bill. Bender replied he had supported housing measures, to which Lausche answered: "You didn't vote on the last issue and you know you didn't vote."

Fire Workouts Held At CHS And Corwin St.

Students at Circleville High School and the seventh and eighth grade pupils at Corwin School were given fire drills to share in local observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Circleville Fire Chief Talmer Wise was present to watch the workouts. Surprise fire drills were also held earlier this week at the High Street and Atwater schools.

In the drill at the high school, City Schools Superintendent George Hartman said approximately 1,005 students and 50 teachers and other adults participated. Commenting on the test, he added:

"The best time was recorded at the south-west doors, where all pupils were clear of the building in 55 seconds. The longest period of evacuation occurred at the north Corwin Street doors where it took one minute and 25 seconds to clear the buildings.

"This was considered an excellent record for clearing a building where so many children are housed. All public schools in Circleville conduct a fire drill at least once each month."

New Jersey Man Free On Bond In Gun Duel

John Joseph Daly, 30, Paterson, N. J., wounded in a shooting scrape at the Cliff Miller farm four miles south of Circleville on October 3, was released from custody today under $1,000 bond.

The wounded man, now on the road to recovery, left by plane for his home in New Jersey early this morning. He was bound over to the Pickaway County Grand Jury on accusations of breaking and entering and shooting with intent to kill. Bond was set at $500 for each accusation.

Daly was wounded in a shotgun duel with an employe of the Miller farm after he had entered the farm house and made himself at home. He was struck by the shotgun blast after he had opened fire first, deputies said.

After treatment at Berger Hospital, it was discovered that 38 pellets had entered the man's body. He may lose the sight of his left eye due to the wound.

IN A statement to Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, Daly said he was a former mail carrier in Paterson. He went on to say that he was suffering from a nervous condition and dispondency ever since his wife died about a year ago.

Daly added that he had headed west to look for a job.

Ike Booked For Radio-TV Show Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, pictured as highly pleased by support from a Negro Democrat in Congress, makes another nationwide bid for votes on television and radio tonight.

This latest appeal will be in a novel form. White House news secretary James C. Hagerty describes it as an "impromptu, entirely unrehearsed press conference" where about 100 "cross-section Americans" will put questions to Eisenhower on various issues.

Broadcast time is 8 p. m. EST.

The panelists to take part have been invited to Washington from all areas of the country by the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee, an organization whose primary objective is to woo the votes of independents and dissatisfied Democrats.

"I think the President probably has never met more than one or two of the 100 or so people who will be questioning him, and we won't know in advance what they are going to ask," Hagerty said.

The induction call for October was 995 and the total call for November of last year was 1,218. The new induction call by counties includes: Clinton 10, Fayette 4, Hocking none, Pickaway 3, Van Wert 3.

Syria Student, Attending OSU, Tells Rotary Of Arab Troubles

Some of the factors behind troubled times in the Arab world were outlined to the Circleville Rotary Club Thursday by Adnan Shuman of Damascus, Syria.

A student at Ohio State University for the past three years, Shuman has been studying "Cooperative Agricultural Economics" on a scholarship received from the Syrian government.

Trouble in the Arab states, he told the Rotarians, comes from three sources—communism, colonization and Israel.

Shuman said the Communists have been trying to infiltrate the Arab nations and are trying desperately to obtain a foothold along the Mediterranean. He explained that much of the bitter opposition to communism is based on the fact that Communists work to tear down all religion.

* * *

PRIOR TO World War I, Shuman recalled, the Arab countries were dominated by the Ottoman empire. And since they were allied with Germany and lost, the French and British governments have taken over since that time.

The Arabs are struggling with some success against the colonization efforts, Shuman said.

Much of the unrest, he declared, is due to broken promises by the British and French.

Shuman expressed belief that the United Nations would not be able to solve the Suez problem for the Egyptians. He said:

"The French and English have dominated control of the canal for years, and nationalization of the canal...while seriously objected to by the French and English, is only what they have done in their own countries.

"But is is wrong when the Egyptians do it with the Suez canal!"

Shuman later in his talk asserted that "Zionism is to the Arabs what communism is the the United States...Jew is a religion, and not a nationality. And the Jews are well organized in Palestine."

British-Egyptian Compromise Hinted In Suez Canal Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Both Egypt and Britain were reported unofficially today to have made conciliatory moves in the Suez Canal dispute.

The British, French and Egyptian foreign ministers hold their fifth private meeting today on the canal crisis with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, president of the U.N. Security Council, said that 11-nation body would hold a private session on the canal controversy later today and perhaps a public session Saturday.

A usually well informed diplomat said that in the talks so far Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahhoud Fawzi had agreed Egypt would cooperate in some respects with the Suez Canal Users' Assn. (SCUA) set up by the second London Suez conference.

* * *

THE SAME diplomat, who asked not to be identified, said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had dropped Britain's insistence on international operation of the canal and had agreed to Egyptian operation provided international safeguards were set up to guarantee freedom of navigation through the waterway, necessary improvements and reasonable tolls.

Another source claiming to be familiar with the British position said they were willing for Egypt to hire the canal pilots and collect the tolls provided SCUA made up the canal convoys and assigned the pilots to individual ships, and if the tolls were fixed in accordance with an international treaty Egypt would sign.

Of this report, a British spokesman would say only, "Bits of it are wrong, but I'm not going to tell you which bits."

Fawzi refused to discuss the reported change in Egypt's position but said he thought something would be accomplished. He said he would stay at the U. N. "as long as is necessary."

Thievs Loot Car Near Bloomfield

Thieves who pried open the wing glass of a temporarily abandoned car stole a top coat, brief case, four shirts, necktie and several other articles. The theft happened two miles south of South Bloomfield on Route 23 early this morning.

The burglarized car, belonging to Robert F. Connelly, Cincinnati, had gone off the highway into a ditch at approximately 2 a. m.

The driver, deciding it would be wiser to wait until daylight to get the vehicle out of the ditch, locked the auto and came to Circleville to spend the night.

However, when he returned to the scene this morning, he discovered the theft. Deputy Sheriff Bob Hoover investigated.

In Michigan, a person is said never to be more than six miles from a lake or a stream.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Friends may call at the funeral home between 6 and 8 p. m. today.

Missouri Girl Likes Mom's No-School Plan

CENTERTOWN, Mo. (AP)—Bright-eyed Mary Schoenheit eagerly agrees with her mother's contention Mary shouldn't have to go to school.

"I don't like school," said the slender 7-year-old. "I think it's a bore. Whenever I think of it I want to cry. And my mother didn't tell me to say that either."

Raymond McDaniels, acting superintendent of Moniteau County schools, said he would file charges in Magistrate's Court against Mrs. Mary L. Scheonheit unless Mary reports for classes today.

Mrs. Schoenheit, 46, and a former Illinois school teacher, has been tutoring Mary at home.

She calls schools "antiquated institutions," says they have an "inhuman passion for uniformity," turn children into "trained seals."

Both Mary and her mother are eager to go to court.

Mary takes violin lessons from her mother along with her other studies and she said she'd like to play for the judge.

Mrs. Schoenheit contends she is complying with Missouri law by giving Mary instruction equal to that in public schools.

McDaniels points out Mrs. Scheonheit has no Missouri teacher's certificate, consequently "does not qualify as an instructor capable of giving the child equal education at home."

Polls Showing Ike In Lead

Some Indicate Margin Smaller Than In 1952

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower is leading Adlai Stevenson in a wide variety of presidential polls, but often by a smaller margin than in 1952.

A compilation of polls shows that to be the general trend, whether in nationwide samplings by professional public opinion experts or in regional straw ballots. There are some exceptions to the trend.

In Vanderburgh County in Indiana, Eisenhower was reported polling 63.2 per cent compared with his actual vote of 58.5 per cent in the 1952 election.

But a poll as of Sept. 18 among farm people only by the Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Homestead, a weekly farm magazine, showed the Stevenson - Kefauver ticket leading the Eisenhower - Nixon slate 43 per cent to 35 per cent, with 22 per cent on the fence.

This was an overturn from September 1952, when the Wallace poll showed 53 per cent of the farm people favoring Eisenhower to 25 per cent for Stevenson, with 22 per cent undecided.

HOW RIGHT the pollsters are cannot be known until the Nov. 6 election returns are in.

The Eisenhower - Nixon ticket polled 55.4 per cent of the major party vote in the 1952 election.

The most recent Gallup poll, published Wednesday, held that as of Oct. 1 Eisenhower was leading Stevenson 52 to 40 per cent, with 8 per cent undecided.

On Sept. 21, four years ago, Gallup reported: Eisenhower 55 per cent; Stevenson 40 per cent, and 5 per cent undecided.

Midwest polls include:

The Minneapolis Tribune's "Minnesota Poll," conducted Sept. 19-25, gave Eisenhower-Nixon 49 per cent; refuse to say, 1 per cent; no opinion, 3 per cent.

The poll, for the comparative period in 1952, gave Eisenhower 54 per cent; Stevenson 40 per cent, refuse to say, 2 per cent, and no opinion, 4 per cent.

The Des Moines Register's "Iowa Poll" in the last week of September gave Eisenhower 46 per cent; Stevenson 36 per cent; and 18 per cent undecided. A similar poll for the same week in 1952 gave Eisenhower 48 per cent; Stevenson 27 per cent, and, undecided, 25 per cent.

Business Feels Increased Cost In Operations

Margin Of Profits Seen Shrinking In Many Enterprises

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Costlier business operations take some of the good out of good times for many concerns.

A number of firms are reporting higher sales volume today without any corresponding rise in profits. And some report profits trailing last year even though they're doing more business.

Still rising costs in the steel industry is causing talk of another hike in steel prices by spring.

Merchants, because they deal directly with the buying public, are in a less happy position when it comes to raising price tags. Many of them are reported absorbing the higher prices on manufactured goods rather than risk loss of customers in the present highly competitive retail market.

Store keepers see their profit margins squeezed as they try to ward off the inroads of the discount houses and other forms of present day competition.

How much it costs to be competitive these days is shown in the stories from Detroit.

The auto makers are supposed to have spent one billion dollars in bringing out the new models. They plan to spend more millions than ever this year in advertising the 1957 models.

Early response to the new Fords is reported very encouraging. When the Chevrolets and Plymouths reach the dealers, the competitive race will be on and the auto makers will find out whether their billion dollar bet will be profitable. One thing they're worrying about is whether tight money, threatening to send up instalment payment costs, will cut into sales.

High development costs for new planes has cut into the earnings of Douglas Aircraft. The company says it spent $16,800,000 in the first nine months on development, and its net profit is below last year.

Rising costs of labor and materials are cited by the New York Central Railroad in reporting a drop in net earnings.

American Telephone & Telegraph, although reporting comfortable earnings, stresses big outlays for expansion. In the last three months it installed more phones — meaning more facilities, too — than in any previous third quarter. Expansion costs have sent it into the money markets several times of late to get new financing.

Cotton Folk Sorry About Cotton Bowl

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP)—The Cleburne office of the agricultural stabilization and conservation program told a caller it had no tickets for the Elvis Presley show in Dallas.

But Elvis was appearing at the Cotton Bowl and the office must have tickets since cotton was part of its business, the caller insisted.

Complications Indicate Ike May Not Win In Missouri

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of articles by veteran Associated Press political reporters who are surveying sentiment in key states.

By OVID A. MARTIN

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The spirit of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft hovers over Missouri Republicanism. It makes more difficult President Eisenhower's task of trying to win the state in November.

The battle which Taft lost to Eisenhower at the party's 1952 national convention still rankles among many who class themselves as "old-line" Republicans. Some say they have no enthusiasm for their party's ticket because they regard Eisenhower as "something of a Fair Dealer."

In traveling over the state to get views on the election outlook, this reporter encountered a number of party members who classed themselves as "Nixon Republicans."

They said they consider Vice President Nixon, again Eisenhower's running mate, to be closer to their political beliefs than is Eisenhower. None of those expressing such views wanted to be quoted by name.

Without doubt, this situation is contributing to a belief among political observers that Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, has climbed ahead of Eisenhower for this border state's electoral votes.

Four years ago, Eisenhower—with the help of an estimated 105,000 Democratic votes — defeated Stevenson by a narrow margin of 29,000. In that same election the Democrats won all other statewide races.

Only an Eisenhower visit to the state, plus a redoubled GOP effort to win votes from Missouri's estimated 125,000 Negro voters, could change the outlook, both Republicans and Democrats agreed.

Perry Compton, patronage-troubled GOP state chairman, conceded that intraparty differences exist, but he insisted there is no justification for it.

Faced with the possibility of losses in farm votes in rural Missouri because of distressed economic conditions and a return of some "Eisenhower Democrats" to their party's fold, the Republicans look to the heavy Negro vote in St. Louis and Kansas City for offsetting ballots.

Questioning of a number of Negroes brought no firm indication as to how this group may vote.

It is taken for granted by most observers that the labor vote will go heavily for Stevenson.

O'Neill To Change Leasing Program

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — C. William O'Neill, Republican candidate for governor, said here he feels the state should encourage the free enterprise system as much as possible regarding the operation of resorts and state parks.

"I am thoroughly familiar with the leasing policy of the present department," O'Neill said. "I disagree with it, and if elected, I propose to change it and give cooperation to the resort owners."

Resort owners at both Indian Lake and Lake St. Marys have complained about alleged difficulties in getting leases renewed. They claim this hampers them in making long-range improvements in their facilities.

Hearing Awaited In N&W Dispute

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—A hearing will be held in Common Pleas Court here today to determine whether to make permanent a temporary court order barring striking United Steelworkers from interfering with Norfolk & Western trains.

The temporary order was issued Wednesday by Common Pleas Judge Warren S. Earhart after the company reported that strikers had halted trains entering and leaving the struck Allied Chemical and Dye Corp.'s Nitrogen Division in nearby South Point.

The strike, by some 900 members of local 3687, is now in its 11th day. It began when a company-union contract expired.

Cow's Leap Fails To Clear Cruiser

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Hey diddle, diddle, the cat and the fiddle, the cow jumped over the police cruiser—well, she almost did.

A Holstein cow wandered away from an east side stockyards and led police a merry chase. At one point, she was sprawled over the hood of a new police cruiser when she failed to get enough lift in her leap.

Although the cruiser was damaged, the cow was not charged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: When one's husband has been faithful 35 years, then turns to an affair with another woman, how does one go on living?

I am 58, and Jake is 60. We are partners in farming, operating 600 acres, living frugally, with almost no vacations and no modern conveniences until a few years ago. We have six grown children and several grandchildren, all healthy and intelligent.

The other woman is 34 and has young children. She doesn't go to church and professes no religion; but she is a good housekeeper, with a pleasant relaxed disposition.

I realize I have been very much at fault, so busy with housework, gardening, bookkeeping for Jake, etc., that I was often tired and cross. Also, a physical ailment has been growing steadily worse for the last three years, during which time I dreaded conjugal intimacy.

I am in the hospital today, scheduled for surgery tomorrow morning, that our doctor insisted upon, as did the children. My husband was indifferent to it until recently.

I have told Jake I love him very much—one may lose the person; but I shall never lose what I felt for him—and will not give him up. He says that once he would have died for me, but feels so differently now that he doesn't know if he will ever want me again. He thinks he loves the other woman and wants a divorce, and a property division so he can marry her.

The other woman's husband found out about the same time I did, and sued, but we managed to quiet things with a money settlement, and have kept it from our children (except one son) and the public . . .

Jake has been going to church recently (he had almost quit before); and is kinder to me, and takes me some places. But will I ever win him back? Or will he just be caged, always longing for her?

W. F.

DEAR W. F.: It would be unfair to blame yourself primarily for this tragedy. Jake bears a full share of responsibility for it too. Likewise, the amoral other woman is a gratuitous wrong-doer, without justification, in leading him on, as a supposed prize catch — thus wilfully aggravating the damage to marriage that long routine, and mutual negligence, and your ill health had inflicted.

Apparently Jake nurses an injured attitude towards your latter year flagging performance as a sweetheart—blindly ignoring the central fact of your encroaching major illness, tiredness and discomfort, which indubitably contributed to your waning sexual vigor, and consequent lessening of sexual interest.

As for his desire to marry his paramour, Holy Writ tells us that persons who sin become the slave of sin. And in this sense, Jake is still under her spell, I gather. Indeed, they are equally victimized in this respect, perhaps. But in time, with the help of prayer, constructive fellowship and on-going marriage, he should gradually recover moral perspective, self-control, and grateful appreciation of you.

DiSalle Not Bound By Present Regime

OXFORD (AP) — Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic candidate for governor, told an audience of Miami University students that, if elected, he would not feel bound to follow policies of the present Democratic state administration.

In answer to a student's question, DiSalle said:

"I would follow the policies of the present administration where I feel bound to precedent. There are fields in which I feel we should be moving faster."

DiSalle said examples of where faster action is needed are the state mental health and educations programs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — You need more than a scorecard to follow the players in the presidential campaign.

For a while Thursday it seemed Adlai Stevenson would be in a onesided conversation if he wanted to keep on talking about ending the draft and the H-bomb tests.

President Eisenhower said he was finished discussing it. But Vice President Nixon said he'd continue talking about it although he said Eisenhower was right in not talking about it.

And while Eisenhower picked one issue as the main one in the campaign, Nixon picked another and said he saw no conflict. Meanwhile, Stevenson seems to have trouble deciding what the main issue is.

Stevenson had drawn Eisenhower into an argument about the draft and the bomb test by suggesting efforts toward ending both. Eisenhower repeatedly answered "No" but this didn't keep Stevenson quiet.

Then Thursday at his news conference Eisenhower was asked to comment on a rumor that his "Republican strategists" had planned to announce an end to the draft and the bomb tests but that Stevenson beat them to the punch.

Eisenhower said this was news to him. He added: "Now, I tell you frankly I have said my last words on these subjects."

But he kept right on talking about them, even though indirectly, by declaring his administration had done everything it could to protect America.

While this was happening in Washington, Nixon was campaigning out West.

He announced he would continue to speak of what he called Stevenson's "unsound position" on both subjects.

Perhaps because Eisenhower and Nixon are on opposite sides of the country they haven't been comparing notes lately. Or maybe they didn't compare them in the first place on what the main campaign issues are.

On Wednesday Nixon said the issue most persons are concerned about is peace. Thursday Eisenhower said the big campaign issue is management of this country's internal affairs since, he said, nobody is against peace, progress or prosperity.

Nixon, when he learned of this in Nevada, said he saw no conflict between what he said and what Eisenhower said.

But if the two Republican candidates seem to have trouble deciding what the issues are, Stevenson also gives signs of having several main issues.

On Sept. 13 Stevenson said: "It is a central issue in this election. . . whether America wants to stay on dead center, mired in complacency. . or whether it wants. . . to move forward . . to build a new America"

On Sept. 24 he said the conflict between him and the Republicans "is fundamentally how to preserve the little fellow, the individual, the many, from being engulfed by the big fellow, the few."

The same day Stevenson said: 'One of the central issues in this election is which party means what it says and which party is only talking."

The more the candidates scramble around, looking for issues, the more they make it appear the issues are pretty thin. If the voters are getting bored with this campaign, that's probably one of the reasons why.

Juvenile Delinquency Comes At Any Age, Expert Claims

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

You can be a juvenile delinquent no matter how old you are, says young looking Dorothy Carnegie, a glamorous redhead from Tulsa, Okla., who now is president of the varied enterprises founded by her husband, the late Dale Carnegie.

The trick in making the most of life is to acquire an adult mind, says Mrs. Carnegie in a New Book, "Don't Grow Old — Grow Up!" Just before you happen to be boss of your own home and checkbook, owner of a mink coat and a portfolio of stocks doesn't necessarily mean you're grown up. She adds:

"Lots of women — and men, too —go through life with the attitude of my 4-year-old daughter, Donna Dale, who wailed when she fell off a chair: 'Bad old chair made me fall!' "

It's all too human, says Dorothy, to pass the buck and blame the other fellow for one's failures and shortcomings. It's a trick that starts in childhood and often continues through life. She advises grownups to take a candid assessment of themselves, recognize both good and bad points and then proceed to develop the former and subdue the latter.

This strictly feminine young woman is quite a living success story herself. A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, she went to work as a secretary for an oil company after college, took a Dale Carnegie course in public speaking, came to New York as Carnegie's private secretary in 1943 and married the boss.

"My husband always said I got more out of the course than most people," says Mrs. Carnegie. "But the fact is that lots of our top executives met their husbands or wives through the course. Now many of them are working together all over the country."

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Carnegie determined to carry on his work, and has been running his enterprises as president ever since.

ONE SUCCESSFUL TEST

WHEN Secretary of Agriculture Benson used the existing law to lower dairy products price supports from 90 per cent of parity to 75 per cent on April 1, there was unhappiness in the dairy states. Efforts were made in Congress to veto Benson's action. But the order stuck and now there are visibly good results at both the production and the consumption ends.

When the order was issued government buying of dairy products exceeded figures for the previous year by five per cent. But from April through July Uncle Sam bought 13 per cent less surplus butter and 39 per cent less surplus cheese.

Partly because of drought, dairy products output is down, but it is also presumed that the lower price supports discouraged some producers who didn't really belong in the dairy business. Because lower price supports resulted in lower retail prices, consumers have bought eight per cent more butter and cheese than in the similar period last year.

So far the Benson thesis that rigid high price supports encourage excess production and drive away consumers has proved to be correct in the one field where his remedy of lower price supports has been applied. No miracles can be expected, but if this is a trend in the right direction it is all to the good.

LEARNING THE HARD WAY

GOOD ADVICE, which may not be taken now by small countries in a nationalistic fervor after centuries of domination by outside powers, comes from S. Brewster Jennings, chairman of Socony Mobile Oil.

"Instead of asserting the power to break their contracts unilaterally, nations needing foreign capital should be asking themselves if there is not some way whereby they can make pledges on which outside investors can rely," said Jennings.

"World trade may be strangled in semantic red tape unless a way can be found to put an end to the absurdity that a sovereign power, like a minor child, is incapable of giving investors assurance that it will do what it specifically promises to do."

Any small nation can benefit vastly by foreign investment which affords efficient operators a profit and gives employment and a higher standard of living to have-not peoples. American investment particularly, by introducing efficiency, higher pay and public health to some of the poorer lands, in sowing seeds of progressivism which will come to full fruit.

Some small nations already know this and are keeping their promises. Others will have to learn the hard way.

CAMPAIGN ORATORY

WITH THE country being deluged by campaign oratory it would be interesting to learn how many votes are changed by speechmaking. Intensive campaigning by presidential candidates is a necessary part of the quest for votes. All are being accorded good hearings.

Large crowds turn out whenever a presidential candidate comes to town. But history does not supply evidence that this popularity can be converted into votes. In fact, the reverse is often true.

William Jennings Bryan set the pace for all time when it came to campaign oratory. In the 1896 race he toured the nation and was heard by millions of people. Hailed as the boy orator, many of his speeches were eloquent. The November returns showed they were ineffective in making votes.

While Bryan was attempting to set the nation on fire with his oratory, McKinley was meeting the public on his front porch. He went from there to the White House.

Oratorical giants like Webster and Clay and Calhoun were passed up for men of lesser platform attainments, while silent men like Grant and Coolidge have been invincible in popular elections.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

When all of a sudden, there seems to be a plethora of favorable, sympathy-wringing notices, tear-jerking stories, about an actress whose picture is to appear, then one may smell a build-up. An effort is being made apparently by a competent press agent to interest the ticket-buying public in this particular person in the hope that all will be forgotten and forgiven. It is usually a good way to rake in the dollars and what worthier interest can a press agent have?

I was moved to think of that when out of a clear blue sky, so to speak, emotion-packed stories appeared in the press and in magazines and over the radio about an actress, Ingrid Bergman, of whom one said, that he who is without sin should cast the first stone. It is good press-agentry to quote the Bible, even though some knowledge of moral law and respect for it are lacking.

Miss Bergman's difficulties and her absence from the very profitable American box office arise from the fact that she deserted her husband and child and pursued another man with whom she had a child out of wedlock. All these family activities were not without press-agentry, giving at first the impression that these acts of whim and cruelty were performed to boost a bad picture or a fading theatrical personality.

However, such judgment of the situation proved to be incorrect. Miss Bergman persisted in her adultery, eventually divorcing her husband. Her daughter thereupon changed her given name from the one her mother preferred, evidencing a distaste for maternal conduct.

This generation and particularly this country have become accustomed to marital infidelity, to broken homes, to deserted children, to columnists fawning over those who are shameless and calling them "celebrities," so that our children use photographs of such as pin-ups and save their autographs as though they were not worthless.

Therefore this episode would have passed as one of many. However, all of a sudden we are asked to condone where there has been no repentance. Miss Bergman or her press agent, whoever is in charge of this effort, has taken the position that lots of people commit adultery, so what? Shall those who break the moral law publicly be more punished than those who break it secretly?

To that, of course, the answer must be that a public breach of the moral law is infinitely worse, because it is brazen.

There is the story of the young man who sat on the steps of the synagogue on the Day of Atonement when all men fasted, and he ate a bar of yellow soap. As distressing as it was to see one eat on such a day of awe, so disgusting was it to see him eat a bar of yellow soap which made him froth at the mouth like a mad dog. When he was asked why, if he wanted to eat while others fasted, did he not eat in the privacy of his home, and something good and tasty, he replied, "If I ate in privacy and something good and tasty, how would anyone know that I am a self-sacrificing revolutionist?"

For the same reason, many forensic persons feel that they must do everything in public, no matter how evil or ridiculous. Otherwise, how would anyone know that they are celebrities?

CHAPTER 34

"WE'LL have a look for some other ammunition, now that I have the smallpox vaccine," Eklund said to McKinstry as he blew out the light in his quarters. "Maybe two such pieces of luck are too much to hope for—but we'll see."

He led the way, keeping to the shadows, to where Dolf Kinney's big storehouse squatted monstrous on the prairie. Not the store, which was open at regular hours to the public, but to the supply building where only trusted employees were ever allowed to enter.

"You think there's something there that he's holding back?" the captain demanded.

"Nothing like finding out, is there?"

"The man talks sense," McKinstry murmured. "When you're in hot water up to your neck, a little more will scarcely parboil you."

Impulsively he moved across to a window and reached to try it, and turned at the thud of a clubbed gun barrel laid alongside a skull, to see Eklund bending over a fallen guard. The tumbled man still clutched a gun in his own hand.

"He aimed to shoot first and ask questions afterward," Eklund explained. "You'll never make a really good soldier, Bill, until you learn to protect your rear."

"Unless I keep you around, I'll never have the chance to learn," McKinstry agreed, disengaging the revolver from the clutching fingers. Taking the fallen man's belt, he used it to fasten his hands behind his back, then rolled him into a patch of deeper shadow.

Eklund had the window open by then, and they climbed through and closed it behind them. The mingled smells of many kinds of merchandise reached their nostrils, and there were vast supplies stacked everywhere, piled almost to the ceiling, boxes and bales and barrels, with only narrow aisles between. It was plain that Dolf Kinney had prepared against a long and possibly hard winter.

Not much light filtered in, but with eyes accustomed to the gloom they could make their way around. It wouldn't do to light a lantern.

"I never imagined that he had half so much stuff," McKinstry murmured. "Now what?"

"I don't exactly know," Eklund confessed. "But it should be here somewhere. The thing is to find it."

"Almost anything ought to be here somewhere," McKinstry agreed. "How could it help it? Whatever it is!"

"And here, I think, it is," Eklund added, lifting down a heavy wooden box from a pile of several. It was securely fastened, but they found a bar and pried loose the top boards, and the markings on the box were confirmed. Here was the missing ammunition—enough to supply the fort, to delight the major's heart.

"So this was your hunch?" McKinstry asked. "And not too surprising, when a man comes to know our trader, whose mind apparently runs on the principle of a pack rat. Though you seem to be the only one who has used his head to think with. What do we do now?"

The answer came, unexpectedly, from the yawning doorway.

"You gentlemen will consider yourselves under arrest!" Blake's voice rapped at them from the gloom, where the faint light glinted on drawn guns. At least a dozen troopers were behind the major, who was peering in at them. "Captain Stockett, disarm the prisoners!"

* * *

"Now that is what I call a pretty example of duplicity! Of course it couldn't be otherwise, with such a pretty girl involved—and the major's sister, at that!"

Helen swung about, startled, but instantly masking it at the drawling voice and mocking face of the Ape. That Stockett had observed the departure of McKinstry and the doctor there could be no doubt, and reading the look in his eyes, her heart skipped a beat.

"Of course my eyes may be playing me tricks," Stockett went on. "But it would almost seem that I have stumbled onto mutiny, at the very least—or would treason be a better word? If I was to raise the alarm, now, or call the major, as I really should—"

"Well, why don't you?" Helen demanded. She had control of herself by now, and there was a biting edge of scorn in her voice which brought sudden color to the Ape's face.

"Maybe I will," he agreed, with provoking deliberateness. "I should, of course. But then, I'm only human, like other men, and if they forget duty in the shine of bright eyes, perhaps I could do the same—if it seemed worth my while."

He was moving toward her, an unpleasant smile on his face, and the post seemed very dark and lonely at this hour. She fell back a step, but now the walls of the stockade cut off further retreat.

"Stay where you are!" she panted. "Don't come any closer!"

"Why not?" His voice was mocking. "Surely you have some kisses for me? If a man turns derelict in his duty, there has to be a reason and a good reward!"

She closed her eyes, then darted suddenly to one side, evading his grasp, but he was close after her as she ran. Suddenly she spun about and faced him.

"If you touch me, I'll scream!" she warned.

He eyed her uncertainly, keeping his distance. Then he laughed.

"It was a good bluff," he said. "Now that you've made it—"

"I mean it," she retorted, and again his laugh was uncertain.

"If you call, I'll have some interesting information for your brother!"

"Go ahead and tell him," she taunted, and this time his laugh was mocking.

"You think you've held me in play long enough that they have a safe start," he said. "That's where you're mistaken. I overheard them talking, and they're going to town first. It will be easy to catch them there."

The major's voice came sharply, then he was stumbling toward them, half-asleep, not fully clothed.

"Helen!" he exclaimed. "Stockett! What is the meaning of this?"

Stockett's voice came smooth and plausible as he saluted.

"Something roused Miss Blake, sir, and caused her to investigate, and she called me to take a look," he explained. "It seems that the prisoner has escaped—apparently with the assistance and connivance of Captain McKinstry!"

Helen watched, frozen, while swift orders were given, and the two swept away at the head of a dozen troopers. Then, hurrying to the stables, she began frantically to throw a saddle on her own white horse.

Try, Stop Me

A bartender in an off-Broadway bistro has invented a "ghost cocktail" to serve tipsy customers—and amuse habitues who watch the formalities. He pours into a trick shaker five or six colorful liquids—and shakes them vigorously. When he upends the shaker, not a drop comes out. "Drink this down," he cautions, "and the chances are you'll disappear yourself."

A fellow he tried it on recently turned the tables, however. He lifted the empty glass to his lips, took a hefty swig; then pronounced, "Pfui! Too sweet!"

French Wine Supply Hurt

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
(For Hal Boyle)

PARIS (AP)—Last winter's bitter cold, the most severe to hit Europe in a long time, will be felt many years hence in the world's wine cellars.

But French wine exporters and government experts do not appear particularly alarmed. After all, they say, the French wine industry has survived many bad seasons and this one is not the worst.

No official figures are yet available on this year's crop. A cold, rainy summer delayed the wine harvest about three weeks. It was September sun that finally ripened the grapes and permitted wine growers to start their annual "vendage."

Unofficial estimates, however, say this year's wine production in France will be cut about 140 million U. S. gallons, or one tenth of the country's average output.

The winter's ravages and fear of poor crop had sent wine prices up about 20 per cent earlier in the year. Later, however, expectations of a fair harvest in the Burgundy, Champagne and Alsace regions helped steady the market. Nevertheless, wine prices this year are between 10 to 15 per cent higher.

Hardest hit by snowstorms and frost was the Bordeaux region, largest wine-producing area of France. About a third of the region's vineyards were destroyed. Wine producers admit that the quality of this year's Bordeaux will be a "little worse."

It will take at least three years before some winter-ravaged Bordeaux vineyards start producing again. In the meantime, export stocks will not be replaced by Bordeaux wines in the usual quantity. Wine exporters hope to increase shipments from the Champagne and Burgundy regions to offset any Bordeaux shortages.

French wine exporters are looking to the United States as a "quality wines market of the future."

Although rating fifth in the volume of purchases of French wines, the United States in 1955 was third in value of its wine imports. At the same time, the United States was the leading purchaser of French alcoholic products, including brandies and liqueurs.

Inexpensive Dentifrice Can Be Made At Home

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

YOU don't have to spend a lot of money to get a good dentifrice or mouth wash. In fact, you can make both of them yourself if you desire.

Most dentifrices are based on two inexpensive ingredients—an abrasive, such as chalk, and a detergent.

Generally, I think you'll find toothpastes which you buy in metal tubes and tooth powders are more effective than the ordinary liquid teeth cleansers. Liquids usually just aren't abrasive.

Preventive Substances

Now I know you've read a lot about dentifrices containing penicillin, ammonium or other preventive substances. These substances may help reduce tooth decay in certain cases. Studies are still being made to determine just how much value they have.

But you can make a good dentifrice right at home in a matter of minutes.

Just mix one part of table salt with two parts of baking soda. If you want, you can add a drop of oil of peppermint to flavor the mixture.

Even if you think it's too much trouble to mix your own dentifrice when so many good commercial products are readily available, it might be a good idea to remember how it's done just in case your supply runs out some day.

What about mouth washes?

The American Dental Association's Council on Dental Therapeutics says that general use of mouth washes helps remove food and debris, but that's about all.

Food Particles

Actually, swishing a little liquid around in your mouth after eating and after brushing your teeth will help remove many of the food particles lodged on and between the teeth.

You can make your own mouth wash by dissolving two teaspoons of ordinary salt in a quart of water. As another cleansing wash or gargle you can even use suds from a bland neutral soap.

This Year's Look Features A New Ladylike Trend

This year the look is ladylike, a trend started by the former Grace Kelly. Now it has gone a step farther and, of all places, on Broadway.

That hit show, "My Fair Lady," has done the trick. Its lively young star, Miss Julie Andrews, is responsible. A picture of prettiness in her demure Edwardian gowns, she has inspired the cosmetic world to copy her style.

They like the way she looks, so they have decreed all women should look likewise.

It means make-up is lighter than ever. Foundation has practically disappeared. Leastways, you are to apply it so it does not show up. Let it look obvious and you are not a la mode.

As for rouge, the less the better. Remember, paleness is prettiness this season.

Even eye make-up, a very big thing just a few seasons back, is being toned down. Mention the doe-eyed look and beauticians shudder. It is strictly old hat. Now such "vulgar" eye outlining is not in style. You can still use mascara, of course, but make it discreet. The same word holds for eyeshadow and liner. As for your brows, touch them up, but ever so lightly.

The pendulum has swung round again and the lass with the delicate air has come into her own. This pale look is pretty and certainly a major improvement over some of the flamboyant beauty fashions of the past.

Ginger Flavors Many Bland Foods

The delicious aroma of cakes and cookies baking in the kitchen brings back memories of childhood. This is especially true when the cakes are made with ginger.

But there is another side to ginger which perhaps is not so well known and this is its ability to perk up other foods.

Ginger gives a lift to bland foods such as cheese. If you like to try a fondue, here is an especially interesting version.

Soak two cups soft bread crumbs in 1½ cups milk until crumbs have absorbed all the milk.

Add one and two-thirds cups grated American cheese, ¾ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon ground ginger, one-sixteenth teaspoon ground cayenne pepper, table spoon butter, melted, and three egg yolks. Beat three egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into cheese mixtures. Turn into an ungreased one quart casserole. Place in a pan of hot water. Bake 75 minutes in preheated slow oven (325 deg. F.). Serves four to six.

The Ten Commandments

THE LORD GIVES HIS PEOPLE THE LAWS BY WHICH THEY SHOULD LIVE IN THE LAND HE HAS GIVEN THEM.

Scripture—Exodus 20:1-21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

MOUNT SINAI in Arabia, was the place God chose to reveal to Moses and all the people the way they should live in the land He had given them after their escape from bondage in Egypt. Moses and Aaron were the only human beings to be with the Lord in the mountain, which was smoking, with thunder and lightning and the loud sound of a trumpet.

The Lord told Moses to go down the mountain to the people to warn them that none must come near the mountain, not even the priests. So Moses went down and cautioned the people to stand far off, and then the Lord spoke to His people, giving them His laws to guide them in living happily in this beautiful country.

"And God spake these words, saying, I am the lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

"Thou shalt have no other gods before Me. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them; for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate Me; and showing mercy unto thousands of them that love Me, and keep My commandments."

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work. But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt do no work . . . for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested on the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it."

"Honor thy father and thy mother. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's."

These were the laws not only for the Jewish people, but for all of us. They are the moral laws to be obeyed universally, a part of our religion which, when we obey them, we may be happy. Disobedience will bring only sorrow, failure and bondage.

How can we parents, teachers, and clergymen so drill these moral laws into the minds and hearts of the young in this day of violence, crime and disregard of the rights of others? We can teach them to obey the laws of bodily health—to live temperately, eat correctly, etc., but it seems the laws of moral health are more difficult to inculcate, or are they? The misdemeanors of the younger set are head-lined in our newspapers and many articles deal with this "juvenile delinquency" problem.

What we should remember always is that these "delinquents" are exceptional cases, and that there are many, many more well behaved young people than there are of the criminally inclined.

The first commandment tells us to worship one God and one only, the God who loves us. The worship of idols is forbidden, although it was a form of worship that had a great attraction for the ancient Israelites, as you remember from previous lessons.

"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." The modern tendency to use profanity in ordinary conversation by men and women is a deplorable one to be corrected.

The observance of the Sabbath is the next commandment. Surely in our busy lives we should keep this one day sacred to worship God and refrain from unnecessary labors.

"Honor thy father and thy mother." The neglect of parents, especially when they are old, is certainly not a way of life conducive to happiness or morality.

"Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, nor his wife, . . . nor any thing that is thy neighbor's."

As we have no space to comment on each of the commandments, the teacher may enlarge upon each one, if only briefly, to fix them in the hearts of the young so that they may remember them when tempted and strive to obey them, with the help of God.

The sight of the smoking mountain with the lightning flashes, the noise of the thundering and of the trumpet awed the people and they stood far off, and asked Moses to speak to them, but "let not God speak with us, least we die," they said.

Moses comforted them saying, "Fear not; for God is come to prove you, and that His fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not."

Democrat's Big Dog Campaigns For Ike

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A great dane has been doing some politicking against his master.

The dog, Hamlet by name, belongs to Joseph S. Clark, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate. He wanders around Chestnut Hill, exclusive Philadelphia residential section, quite a bit. The other day he came home from his meanderings with an "I Like Ike" button pinned to his collar.

Cub Shakeup Brings Old Vets To Forefront

Ex-Catcher Scheffing Slated To Be Named As Field Manager

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs are convinced that old brooms sweep cleaner.

They were expected to complete their house cleaning today by naming Bob Scheffing, one of their ex-catchers, as field manager.

There isn't much of a new look in the Cubs' shakeup from front office to the field which started Thursday when Personnel Director Wid Matthews, Business Manager Jim Gallagher and skipper Stan Hack resigned.

Returning to his third hitch with the club is Charlie Grimm. Joining him in the reorganized front office is John Holland, in baseball 35 of his 46 years and on the Cub pay roll the last 11.

They were given titles of vice president.

Holland, as president of the Cubs' Los Angeles farm in the Pacific Coast League, and Scheffing as field manager, produced a pennant this year.

Remaining as executive vice prisident of the Cubs is another veteran, 75-year-old Clarence (Pants) Rowland.

They have the assignment of lifting the Cubs up by the bootstraps after 10 dismal seasons in the National League second division.

The Cubs finished 1956 in last place for the fourth time since 1949 and with 94 defeats, worst record in their history.

Matthews was Branch Rickey's "talent man" with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers when Cub owner P. K. Wrigley hired him in 1950. He is a smiling, 59-year-old gentleman who sincerely thought the Cubs were on the climb and received the brunt of criticism when they kept tailspinning.

No sooner had Wid resigned than Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, said that he "is a very capable fellow and we'd like to have him in our organization."

Gallagher, a former Chicago sports writer, had been with the Cubs since 1940. One rumor has him winding up across town with the White Sox.

Hack was a long-time third baseman for the Cubs and managed the Des Moines and Los Angeles farm clubs before replacing one of his former teammates, Phil Cavarretta, at the helm in the spring of 1954. He was the Bruins' fourth manager in eight years.

Key man in the new order appears to be Holland, a stocky mildmannered man who cut his teeth on a baseball bat.

"There won't be any title except that of vice president," said Wrigley. "The only time you have to designate authority is when there is a conflict. There definitely will be no general manager. I'm allergic to them."

Vice President Grimm, however, said that "Holland is the 'general manager' and will run the show. I will work closely with the organization."

Grimm, who resigned last June as pilot of the Milwaukee Braves, has been a Cub favorite ever since he broke in as the team's first baseman in 1925. He was manager from 1932 until 1938, when he quit, and he returned to the club as manager in 1944.

The Cubs won the pennant under Grimm in 1932, 1935 and 1945, but started their nosedive in 1946.

In 1949 Grimm was moved up to the post of vice president.

Grimm soon tired of his front office job. He resigned to accept an attractive contract to manage Dallas in the Texas League, departing with the assertion that "these hands were never made to carry a briefcase."

He became manager of the Braves, then in Boston, in 1952.

Grimm, who says his new duties will be to visit Cub farms, keep a sharp eye out for prospects, and hunt down any talent Holland may have in mind, now declares:

"I've finished my job on the field and if I have to grab a brief case now, I think I'll be able to do it with a little practice."

SWAPS, the great thoroughbred who holds five world records, limps toward his quarters to undergo X-ray after pulling up lame in a workout at Garden State Park, Camden, N. J. Leading him is his trainer, Meshach Tenney. Note how Swaps holds aloft his aching left hind leg. X-ray shows Swaps suffered a ruptured blood vessel which will keep him out of action for four months. (International)

CHS Tigers, Seeking First Win, Set To Battle Tough St. Charles

Circleville's grid Tigers face a stern test tonight when they meet a bruising Columbus St. Charles team on the local gridiron. The tilt is scheduled to get underway at 8 p. m.

The Tigers, seeking their first win in five starts, aim to give the favored Columbus crew a battle all the way.

The CHS starting lineup will probably see several changes in the backfield. Gary Phifer, who has been working out at the fullback spot, is slated to see plenty of action at that position tonight. He formerly was a hard-tackling guard.

Regular fullback Don McClaren is tentatively slated to move to left halfback. He and Dave Carpenter will probably alternate at the scatback post.

* * *

COACH Tom Bennett's forward wall starting lineup will be about the same as last week. Guard Terry Barthelmas, injured in the Chillicothe game, will see limited action tonight for the first time since he was sidelined with a bruised leg.

Last week the Tigers went down to defeat, 14 to 6, at the hands of a strong Hillsboro team.

According to coach Dick Boyd who scouted St. Charles last week, the opponents will bring one of the toughest teams in this section to Circleville tonight. Last year the Tigers defeated the Cardinals 33 to 20, and the visitors undoubtedly will be seeking revenge.

Boyd said the St. Charles attack is featured by a smooth-running offense, sparked by fullback Martin and halfbacks Moskus and Allen.

The CHS coach went on to say that the hard-hitting Martin will probably be the best backfield man to appear on the Circleville gridiron this year.

7-Foot Cage Ace Booted By Knicks

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Walter Dukes, the 7-foot New York Knickerbocker's basketball star, is through as a member of the National Basketball Assn. club.

"I don't want to see that guy again," Knicks Coach Vince Boryla said Thursday. "He's not the type of player that we want. He just doesn't have the temperament, the spirit or the attitude."

The Knicks paid the Harlem Globetrotters $25,000 for the former Seton Hall All-America a year ago. It was the largest sum ever paid for a basketball player.

Skeet Quinlan Gets Post With Browns

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Cleveland Browns of the National Football League Thursday signed halfback Volpey (Skeet) Quinlan.

He was released Wednesday by the Los Angeles Rams. Quinlan, 28, said he plans to join the Browns immediately.

U.S. Olympic System Said To Be Insane

OXFORD (AP) — Glenn Cunningham, once America's top mile runner, calls the American system of selecting Olympic team members through qualifying meets 'completely insane."

Cunningham, speaking Thursday at an assembly of high school pupils, blamed the qualifying system for America's poor showing in Olympic middle and long distance runs. And he predicted this country would fare badly in this year's Olympics in those events.

American Olympic team members are selected in qualifying meets and previous performances are not considered.

"The men are run to death before they get to the games," said Cunningham.

"Consistency of performance should mean something in qualifying."

He added, "Don Lash should have been the 5,000 - meter winner in the 1936 Olympics at Berlin but he left his records back home on the qualifying tracks of the U. S.

"Bill Graber should have won the pole vault at Berlin but he failed to qualify in the final tryouts."

New York Yankees beat Washington's Senators 17 games in 22 meetings during 1956.

Syracuse University is still looking for its first undefeated football season.

Calhoun, Sullivan Slated For Match

CLEVELAND (AP) — Both Rory Calhoun and John L. Sullivan, who fight in a middleweight 10-rounder here tonight, hope to get Joey Giardello as next opponent. And the experts hereabouts say Calhoun will be the one whose hope is still alive Saturday.

But the experts were wrong in placing their bets two weeks ago when Giardello whipped Bobby Boyd and sent his stock as a middleweight contender way up.

Giardello, who hasn't been committed to meet tonight's winner, will be on hand to watch Sullivan, veteran from England, swap punches with the 22-year-old Calhoun, an Atlanta minister's son.

Big Newk Labeled As 'Promising'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Newsmen asked president Walter O'Malley if he is going to keep his eyes peeled for any promising players when he takes his Brooklyn Dodgers on a tour of Japan.

"One promising player I'm going to look at is named Don Newcombe," O'Malley said. "He borrowed $100 from me the minute he got on the plane Thursday and promised to pay it back."

O'Melley said the big 27-game winner boarded the plane in New York with no baggage.

Oklahoma Expected To Chalk 33rd Straight Grid Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma's Sooners expect to make it official Saturday.

Bud Wilkinson's lads went out and lashed Kansas State 66-0 last week to apparently snap their own major college record for consecutive wins, making the wildcats their 32nd straight victim.

But the NCAA Service Bureau Thursday came up with a new wrinkle and decided that Pittsburgh held the previous record from 1914-1919 by accumulating 33. The Sooners should have little trouble equaling the Panthers' record against Texas.

Oklahoma, No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll, ironically gets an opportunity to tie the mark against the same team it defeated to start its string. In 1953 the Sooners overcame the stubborn Longhorns 19-14.

The nation's second-ranked team the Spartans from Michigan State, go after their third in a row tonight, meeting Indiana, which bowed to Notre Dame last week, The Spartans will be minus the services of their rugged halfback Walt Kowalczyk, who has an ailing ankle.

In the only major action tonight, Miami, straining to hop into the nation's top 10 teams, meets the weakened Maryland squad.

All the top teams, except Southern California, see action Saturday. Georgia Tech, No. 3 on the basis of two tough wins—Kentucky 14-6 and Southern Methodist 9-7, will display its most potent offense against Louisiana State. For the first time this season quarterback Wade Mitchell and half George Volkert will be together.

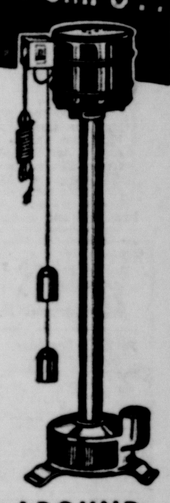

Fourth-ranking Texas Christian should be able to spring Jim Swink loose against winless Alabama. Ohio State (No. 5) faces a tough challenge in Big Ten opponent Illinois, while Tennessee (No. 6) tackles Chattanooga. Mississippi (No. 7) faces a stern test in upset - minded Vanderbilt. Ninth-rated Texas A&M battles Houston at night and 10th rated Baylor with three victories, meets the Razorbacks of Arkansas.

In the Ivy League, Brown and Dartmouth clash in a battle of also rans. Columbia will try to get its initial score of the season against Yale. Penn will be looking to lengthen its one - game winning streak at the hands of favored Princeton, and Cornell plays Harvard.

In other eastern tests, Boston U. meets George Washington under the lights and Syracuse hosts West Virginia.

On the coast, California is at Oregon State; Stanford tests San Jose State; UCLA battles Washington State, and Washington meets Oregon.

Unbeaten Kittens Down Lancaster

Circleville's reserve footballers, playing their best game of the season, mowed down Lancaster's reserves, 14-0, here yesterday.

It was the fifth straight victory for the unbeaten Kittens and the win improved their three-year record to 19 wins, one loss and one tie.

"Possession" football highlighted the Kittens' play Thursday. The usual long runs were missing and in their place the C.H.S. boys ground out methodical first downs. The Kittens had the ball only four times and scored twice.

Lancaster kicked off to start the game and Circleville returned he ball to their own 42. From that point, they picked up yardage in small chunks until the ball was moved to the Lancaster 12-yard line. Ray Phifer shot off tackle from the 12 and scored the first touchdown.

* * *

PHIFER'S pass to Ted Wellington added the extra point and the quarter ended with Circleville in front, 7-0.

Lancaster ran only three plays before being forced to punt and Circleville again started a march from their own 27. The drive ended on the Lancaster 17 due to a costly penalty.

An example of how time-consuming the Kitten offense was is shown by the fact that when Lancaster got the ball again just before the half, they had run only four plays up until that point. They ran six more plays before the half ended.

Circleville kicked off to Lancaster to start the second half, but a pass interception by Larry Hannahs gave the Kittens the ball on their own 41.

Another long drive brought the ball to the two, the chief play being a 17 yard dash by Phifer. From the two, Wellington bucked over for the score. Phifer's dive over the line was good for the extra point and Circleville took a 14-0 lead.

Lancaster resorted to passing in the fourth quarter. But another pass interception by Hannahs killed their final chances and Circleville took over the pigskin and ran out the time.

The Kittens face another tough task next week when they travel to Chillicothe on Wednesday to take on the junior Cavaliers. Chillicothe was defeated here by the Kittens in the opening reserve game of the season, 14-6.

Circleville	7	0	0	7	— 14

2 Obscure Entries Set Tourney Pace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A tightly bunched field of tournament veterans took out today after a pair of relatively obscure 68 shooters in the second round of the Western Open Golf tournament.

Defending champion Cary Middlecoff of Dallas shot a 2-under-par 70 in his opening round to stay within easy reach of the front-running Californians.

Chula Vista professional Bill Casper and Alameda amateur Johnny McMullin set out to show whether their initial 68s were flashes in the pan.

3 Youths, 2 Vets On Davis Cup Team

NEW YORK (AP) — America's hopes of regaining the Davis Cup from Australia have been put up officially to two veterans of international tennis competition and three promising youths.

Duck Season In Ohio To Open Monday

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's 70-day duck-hunting season opens Monday and ends Dec. 22, with shooting limited to the period between a half-hour before sunrise to a half-hour before sunset.

The Ohio Division of wildlife said the early-season hunters probably would have only homegrown waterfowl at which to fire, since no mass movement of birds from the Canadian marshes has started.

All hunters who have reached their 16th birthday, except owners, tenants or farm managers on their own land, must have an Ohio hunting license. Also, all must have a federal duck stamp.

Early season marksmen will have less game at which to shoot, but will have more time to spend in the blinds. The first day's sunrise - sunset period is about 11 hours and 11 minutes. The closing day period is 9 hours and 20 minutes, with the others graduated between those limits.

The division reminded hunters the daily bag limit on ducks is four, with a limit of eight in possession after the first day; the limit on geese is five, with not more than two Canadian geese or two white-fronted geese included; that the season is closed on wood ducks, and killing of the latter will cost from $15 to $200 each, plus court costs.

The sunrise-sunset figures, which differ some 13 minutes on opposite sides of the state, apply to the area in which the shooter is doing his hunting, not on a statewide basis.

Buckeyes Off For Contest With Illini

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State's Bucks abandoned their ground attack today and took to the airways—just long enough to fly to Illinois for Saturday's Western Conference opener.

The Bucks, with victories over Nebraska and Stanford tucked away, are one-touchdown favorites over Ray Eliot's Illini who defeated California and then dropped a verdict to Washington.

Ohio State will be going after its third straight Big Ten title and its 14th straight conference victory, as well as the third in a row over Illinois. In the last 10 years the Bucks have won five, lost four and tied one with Illinois.

The two-game statistics give Ohio the slightest of edges. Each team has registered 36 first downs, the Illinois has allowed the foe to move 670 yards while Ohio has given up 667 yards.

Illinois has fumbled the ball away four times, and had two passes intercepted, but the Bucks haven't made a miscue.

Among the big questions is whether the Illini forward wall, averaging 210 pounds, can contain the Buck land assault. In two games the Ohioans have had the ball 24 times, scoring 10 touchdowns, punting nine times, losing it three times on downs, and the clock halting them twice.

One touchdown came on a blocked punt, but the Ohioans drove a total of 562 yards for the other nine—an average of 62.4 yards for each payoff under their "possession" type of play.

Saturday's game is the 45th in the long series dating back to 1902. Of the 44 to date, Ohio has won 25, lost 16 and tied 3. Game time is 1:30 p. m. (EST), and the contest will be telecast.

NEW YORK (AP)—Counting an extra $83,000 from radio and postgame broadcast rights, the World Series player pool will be about $776,000. Of this total, 70 per cent goes to the two contesting clubs on a 60-40 split.

It is understood the Yankees have 36 shares at roughly $9,000 per share and the Dodgers have 31 shares at about $7,000.

It is understood also the Yankees voted Enos Slaughter, 40-year-old veteran, a three-fourths share.

Four former Michigan State boxers turned professional. They are Chuck Davey, Jed Black, Herb Odom and Chuck Spieser.

Sokolsky's

And, if one lives by such means, it is necessary to act accordingly, just as in the circus there are clowns and even those who stand on their heads. And we pay to see them because they make us laugh.

But when the moral law is broken, entirely different criteria arise, for in our struggle to survive as a people, and even more importantly, as a civilization, it is impossible not to view with alarm the degeneration of responsibility, of obligation, of the capacity to curb lusts, of the seeking for the approval of God, of a belief in His judgment.

For the alternative must be that anything goes if you can get by with it. And that is a particularly dangerous philosophy of life if applied broadly, for apart from its being morally wrong, it is pragmatically wrong when our civilization is in competition with the hard-working, producing, self-sacrificing Puritanism of the current Soviet countries.

Rev. Fred Ketner Named Head Of Crippled Children Society

Agency Gives Annual Data, Cash Report

Easter Seal Drive Gathered $3,131; Expenses $1,696

The Rev. Fred Ketner has been elected president of the Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, it was announced today. He has already started on the duties of his one-year term.

Winfield Koch was named vice-president, and Mrs. Charles A. Walker, secretary. The Rev. Charles Reed will serve as treasurer of the organization, and Mrs. H. Dale Rough was designated publicity secretary.

Community leaders have frequently drawn public notice to the quietly efficient and considerate efforts of the society in behalf of local residents. In eligible cases, it provides aid for adults as well as for children.

The society is best known to the public through its annual sale of Easter Seals and the traditional Lily Parade. All of its officers and other members work as volunteers.

• • •

AT THE group's annual meeting, it was announced that 46 children benefited through the society's services during the 12-month period. The report listed cases as follows:

Cerebral palsey, 9; polio, 1; orthopedic service, 1; speech disorder, 1; hernia, 1; glasses, 9; spinal bifida, 2; transportation to and from Pittenger camp and Columbus clinics, 11; hospitalizations, 2; wheel chairs and beds, 9, and a number of braces and special shoes.

The society and the Pickaway County Board of Education joined in buying an audiometer to test the hearing of school children.

Total spent for these services was $1,696.49.

The 1956 Easter Seal campaign netted $3,131.11. Balance left from this year's drive: $1,434.62.

Ohio Officials Urges Agency For State Crime Prevention

By BILL TERRY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Where can you get the complete picture of crime in Ohio?

How do you know which communities are doing the best job of preventing crime? Where do you find the most major crimes, and why?

M. C. Koblentz, chief of the state division of correction, would like to know the answers. He thinks many more Ohioans are interested in them, too.

But you just can't put your hand on them readily, and Koblentz would like to correct that.

Koblentz would like to see a new agency formed—either a private or public body—that would take on the job of crime prevention on a statewide basis. It would deal with both adult and juvenile crime.

"There now is no Ohio governmental agency whose prime responsibility is crime prevention," Koblentz says. "The present agencies are concerned mainly with catching, detaining and treating the criminal.

"Sure, some big police department may have crime prevention bureaus, but no department makes this its main business."

It's a big field, Koblentz admits, and some churches, welfare agencies, schools, civic groups and others are interested in particular phases.

"They're sincere and doing a good job as far as they can go," says Koblentz. "But they individually are unable to cope with the total crime prevention problem. There are a number of reasons. Maybe there aren't enough properly - trained people. Perhaps there's not enough money.

"What Ohio needs," he continued, "is a central clearinghouse where the good work now being done on a limited basis can be recognized and passed on to other communities as examples.

"This central agency—and it doesn't necessarily have to be part of government—would meet head-on the problem of preventing crime. It would gather and correlate statistics on crime in Ohio and pinpoint the high crime areas.

"It would interchange crime prevention programs among various communities, so everyone would know at once which programs work, which don't produce too good results.

"If a community requested," he went on, "the agency would supply persons trained in establishing and developing programs to combat adult and juvenile delinquency."

Koblentz and his assistants give many talks before civic and other groups. In the coming months they will explain Koblentz's idea for the agency. And they'll also be listening, for suggestions on how it can be set up.

Koblentz is a director of the American Correctional Assn. and is vice president of the Central Correctional States Assn. Members of the two groups are concerned about the way prison populations have jumped since the end of World War II.

Ohio's prison population at the end of that war was 6,600. It stands at 10,600 now, and Koblentz predicts that in two years it will be 12,000.

Since 1950, crime increased 27 per cent nationally while the population of the United States rose 7 per cent. During the first six months of this year major crime throughout the nation increased 14 per cent over those during the corresponding months of 1955. That was the highest percentage increase in the last 10 years and is based on Federal Bureau of Investigation records.

Ohio courts now report annually, to the secretary of state, cases brought before them. These don't include unsolved crimes or those for which there were no indictments.

"We're treating the symptoms of crime, the offenders, but we're not doing enough to determine and stamp out the causes of crime," Koblentz said.

"A police department is primarily set up to catch and hold criminals," he added, "even though its officials may have a desire to do more crime prevention work."

Koblentz estimates major crime costs Ohio one-half billion dollars a year.

"That's a lot of money, and a statewide agency to determine and tell others about the best ways to prevent crime certainly would pay for itself."

Beulah Has Yen To Roam, Pulls Donnie With Her

DETROIT (AP)—Six-year-old Donnie knew 5 - year - old Beulah shouldn't be running away from home like that so he took out after her. He caught her, but his four-foot, 50 - pound frame was no match for her four-foot, 90-pound one, and Beulah had a yen to roam.

Donnie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rivard and Beulah is their boxer dog.

Donnie said Beulah didn't want to go home, so he followed, yanking to no avail now and then on her chain collar.

Police spotted a big dog and a small boy trudging along more than a mile from Donnie's home. So when Donnie's alarmed parents called an hour later the police knew where to start looking.

"I'm lost," Donnie told policemen. "I didn't want to come down here, but Beulah did."

'Blue Rocks' Taste Good–At First

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine-year-old Jack Lucas brought some tasty-looking blue rocks from home and passed them out to fellow students at Gravois Avenue School.

"They tasted good at first, then sour, then awful," said Jerry O'Nesky, 9, one of 19 children treated at Lincoln Heights Receiving Hospital. The "blue rocks," it turned out, were blue vitriol or copper sulfate that Jack's mother, Mrs. W. A. Lucas, used at home for cleaning out plumbing.

Girl Scout Chiefs Schedule Parley

COLUMBUS (AP) — Representatives of an estimated quarter-million Girl Scouts in Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia will hold the 26th conference of Kenowva Region here Oct. 29-31.

Speakers, panel and group discussions and films will carry out the conference theme: "Believe with conviction, belong with pride, build with courage." The Kenowva Region is one of 12 such groups in the Girl Scout movement in the United States.

Ohio Traffic Toll Ahead Of 1955

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio traffic in the first seven months this year killed 53 more persons than in the comparable period of 1955.

But the increase in deaths was roughly the same, percentagewise, as the increase in the number of vehicle miles.

The state highway safety department reports that deaths by the end of July this year on Ohio highways stood at 1,068 against 1,015 at the end of July 1955. Vehicle miles traveled this year were estimated at 21 billion, an increase of 1½ billions over the first seven months of 1955. Of the deaths this year, 316 occurred in city traffic and 752 in rural areas.

Judge Plans Ruling On Confession

CINCINNATI (AP)—Criminal Court Judge Charles S. Bell will rule Monday on whether an alleged confession by Denver Powell, 45, of El Centro, Calif., shall be introduced in evidence in Powell's first degree murder trial.

Powell is accused of having participated in the holdup-slaying of delicatessen operator Joseph Schreck on Nov. 27, 1949.

Judge Bell Thursday recessed the trial until Monday after having spent most of two days listening to testimony in connection with Powell's alleged confession. The jury has been excused during the testimony on the statement.

Powell has claimed he was questioned for many hours with only a glass of milk and a sandwich for food, that he had little sleep and that he was threatened and hit by police officers.

Detective Lytle Young, one of the interrogators, testified Thursday that Powell was treated "very courteously" and that he was neither threatened nor hit.

Asst. Prosecutor Donald Roney also denied that he made any special promises to Powell and said, "I urged him to tell the truth."

At one point, Defense Atty. George C. Allen said he was trying to show that Powell was "definitely under psychological pressure."

"I don't know what you are talking about — psychological pressure,' Judge Bell said. " . . . I know of no confession that has been ruled out because of psychological pressure. Some may have been ruled out for physical force or promises but not for what's on a defendant's mind."

Sleepy Hornets Awaken Students

CARTHAGE, Tex. (AP)—A student brought what he thought was an abandoned hornet's nest to Mrs. Hazel Kyle's science class at Carthage High.
